OFFICIAL PAPER OF SANTA FE COUNTY.

The New Mexican is the oldest newspaper in New Mexico. It is sent to every postoffice in the Territory, and as a large and growing circulation among the intelligent and progressive people of the Southwest.

ALBUQUERQUE SHOULD APPRECIATE.

It is refreshing to know that there is one daily paper in Albuquerque that has the decency and the fairness to give Delegate Andrews the credit that justly belongs to him for the passage of two important measures of great value to the Duke City, namely the appropriation of thirty thousand dollars for the maintenance and expenses of the International Exposition and the Sixteenth National Irrigation Congress and of thirty thousand dollars additional to the appropriation of one hundred thousand dollars already made for the erection of a federal building in that town.

The New Mexican hopes that the Citizen represents the true sentiments of the good citizens of Albuquerque. Were this otherwise and were a hostile feeling to prevail it would be a disgrace and a shame to the residents of that city who will be so greatly benefited by the expenditures and use of these great sums of money. The New Mexican is informed that the business men and the good citizens generally, acknowledge the services that Delegate Andrews has rendered their city and are not in sympathy with the slanders and libels published by the Albuquerque Morning Muckraker. The New Mexican trusts this is true.

The Citizen comments as follows upon the course of Delegate Andrews in procuring favorable action by Congress on these appropriations:

"It is with considerable pleasure that the Citizen today announces that the thirty thousand dollar additional appropriation for another story to the federal building in this city, was passed by Congress at the eleventh hour, as a part of the federal building appropriation measure.

"Added to the appropriation of $30,000 for the National Irrigation Congress, this makes sixty thousand dollars coming to this city within a few weeks from the first session of the Sixtieth Congress.

"Delegate Andrews by his hard work for these two appropriations, has placed Albuquerque under a debt of gratitude to him.

The delegate was assisted at every turn of the road by Governor Curry, and Colonel Hopewell and Colonel Twitchell of the board of control of the National Irrigation Congress and by all the members of the New Mexico delegation who went to Washington at their own expense, to work for the interests of this territory.

All of them worked very hard to secure both appropriations and their efforts have resulted in great good to this city.

Delegate Andrews in his capacity of representative of this territory in Washington and with his strong personal influence, aided by the friendship of the Pennsylvania delegation, brought great pressure to bear on Congress. Being constantly in Washington, he championed the appropriations through both Houses, with the assistance of his Pennsylvania friends.

Delegate Andrews will return to Albuquerque in a few days and he should be accorded a public reception, such as will show him that his work is appreciated fully by the people of this city.

Sixty thousand dollars to be expended in this city is quite an item.

"The men who worked so persistently to secure that money are the kind of men of whom New Mexico should feel proud, and they are deserving of the highest commendation at the hands of every public-spirited citizen."

SANTA FE MUST WAKE UP TO ITS AGRICULTURAL POSSIBILITIES.

The postoffice at Tucumcari has been advanced to second class and thereby hangs a tale of phenomenal growth and development with its lesson that agricultural settlement builds cities upon a firm foundation. Mining and manufacturing fluctuate; railroads have their vagaries in building and supporting towns as Carlsbad and Alamogordo have learned to their cost. Elizabethtown, White Oaks and even Silver City have had their ups and downs on account of the uncertainty of the mining industry but agricultural communities like Tucumcari and Roswell and even Las Cruces do not go backward at any time and when they make rapid growth retain the advanced position gained. For this reason, Tucumcari, which a few years ago was only a fourth class country store postoffice, at present handles more "paid" mail matter than does the Santa Fe office, and the town will in 1910, the census year, outrank Santa Fe, unless Las Cruces incorporates within its municipal limits, the suburban districts to the east and to the south. It would be regrettable if the coming census should show that Santa Fe is seventh or eighth in population and wealth in New Mexico, but there is every indication now that besides Albuquerque and Las Vegas, the towns of Roswell, Raton and Tucumcari, if not Las Cruces, Silver City and several others, will have forged ahead of it in two more years. To prevent this, all the urban population should be included in the city limits, and extraordinary efforts should be made to locate homeseekers upon the quarter million of acres of public land immediately surrounding this city and upon the 100,000 or more acres of good agricultural land within private land grants tributary to Santa Fe. These lands compare favorably with those attracting settlers by the thousands in eastern New Mexico, having besides more abundant rainfall, greater railroad facilities, proximity to large towns and good markets, and should be populated with thrifty farmers. All the previous efforts though they have been costly to secure manufacturing industries and commercial advantages for Santa Fe, would seem insignificant in results, when compared with the growth and prosperity that would come from settling a thousand farmers on the lands between Santa Fe and Kennedy.

IF NOMINATED ANDREWS WILL BE RE-ELECTED.

The Socorro Chieftain is of the opinion that if Delegate Andrews is renominated on the Republican ticket he will be re-elected and the Chieftain is correct in its surmise. The paper puts the situation editorially in an easily understood and convincing way. It pays no attention to the slanders and libels against Delegate William H. Andrews and Republican party leaders and has no patience with the quibbles that two terms in Congress are enough for any one man, which quibbles are being advanced by the opposition of certain Republicans in two or three counties in the territory, who for either personal, political or ambitious reasons do not care to have Delegate Andrews' just claims to recognition by his party granted and respected. Says the Chieftain:

"The Chieftain does not know whether Mr. Andrews will again receive the Republican nomination for delegate to Congress from New Mexico or not. That is a matter to be left to the wisdom of the majority of the Republicans of the territory as expressed through their territorial convention. However, in the event that Mr. Andrews is renominated his record as delegate will afford the strongest possible argument for his election. His friends and supporters will be in a position confidently to challenge his opponents, either mug-wump or Democratic, to show wherein he has failed to do his whole duty in behalf of his constituents. More than that, they will be in a position to assert and to prove to the satisfaction of the fair-minded that, owing partly to his peculiar relations to influential members of Congress, Mr. Andrews has accomplished vastly more in way of promoting New Mexico's interests during his delegateship than any other citizen of the territory could have accomplished. In fact, neither Mr. Larrazolo nor any other peerless candidate whom the Democrats may nominate will have a ghost of a show of election in face of the record made by the present Republican delegate. If Mr. Andrews is renominated he will be re-elected."

The voters of Oregon must be a conglomeration of cranks. Governor Chamberlain, a Democrat, at this time has beaten Judge Henry M. Calk for the U. S. Senate, while Congressmen Hawley and Ellis, Republicans, have fair majorities. Woman's suffrage was defeated by a large majority, the prohibition movement showed great strength and many counties in the state were carried by it. It will take several days before the correct result will be known. Under the circumstances it is not easy to decide which party can justly claim the victory.

There is no discount as yet on the Republicans of the great state of Iowa. In this week's primaries they have given their veteran U. S. Senator, William B. Allison a majority of over 12,000 over his opponent, Governor A. B. Cummins, whose friends made a very strenuous fight against the nestor of the Senate. Old age has evidently not impaired the strength of Senator Allison and the confidence and esteem the Republicans of Iowa have for him.

TAFT ON THE FIRST BALLOT.

Those anxious people who have been unable to sleep and have been worrying themselves into nervous prostration because they feared that the nomination of Secretary of War William H. Taft at Chicago was in danger on account of the many contested delegations from the southern states can now be peaceful and comfortable again and "sleep of nights."

The latest roster of delegates elected to the Republican national convention shows conclusively that Secretary Taft has much more than a majority to nominate him on the first ballot and that therefore all anxiety on the part of the Secretary's supporters may well be allayed and all hopes of the opposing elements may as well disappear and be put aside.

The Kansas City Star, an independent newspaper but a supporter of the nomination of the secretary, makes sensible and timely comment reviewing the situation holding that there was a time when the prospect of numerous delegate contests in the Chicago convention was fraught with apprehension that the nomination for President might depend on the way these contests would be decided. But the possibility of putting any such responsibility on the national committee or the convention no longer exists. Enough votes are instructed or pledged for William H. Taft, ignoring the contested delegations, to nominate him. Therefore, no matter what the preferences of the national committee might be, it will not be subjected to strong political temptation in making its decisions. This is especially gratifying because of the fact that nearly all of these contests were instituted by those opposed to the nomination of Secretary Taft, and most of them are based on the flimsiest pretensions. They represent a part of a general scheme by which it was hoped at one time to defeat the choice of the people for the Republican nomination, a hope that passed away with the completion of the delegate elections.

DECENCY NOT IN THE JOURNAL'S LINE.

In commenting upon the passage of a section in the Civil Sundry appropriation bill, which passed last week and which section appropriates the sum of $30,000 for the expenses of the Industrial Exposition and the Sixteenth National Irrigation Congress, to be held at Albuquerque this fall, the Torrance County Leader calls attention to the way in which this, to Albuquerque very important item, was treated by the newspapers in the Duke City. As usual it is found that the Evening Citizen did the right thing while the Albuquerque morning sheet was not decent or public spirited enough to give Delegate Andrews due credit. Says the Leader:

"The Albuquerque Citizen gives Delegate Andrews credit for the work he has done for New Mexico, but the Morning Journal of that town is still knocking against the delegate and will not even say a good word for him after all he has done for that town. But that very opposition is the best recommendation Mr. Andrews can have in his candidacy for re-election and the Journal will have something to write about for two years more."

Thanks to the efforts of Internal Revenue Collector H. P. Bardshar, Santa Fe, in two years, will have another handsome, attractive park. The grounds surrounding the federal building in the northern part of the city containing about six acres are to be placed in lawns, roads and drives are to be laid out and many trees are to be planted. In three or four years the grounds surrounding the federal building will be one of the beauty spots not only of Santa Fe, but of the entire Southwest. It has taken Collector Bardshar some time to obtain favorable action from the treasury department to approve his plans for the park to surround the building but approval has finally been had and the surroundings of the handsome federal building are to be improved and beautified. This community is under obligations to Collector Bardshar for his good work.

Memorial Day exercises on last Saturday in this city were very properly and satisfactorily observed. The Fourth of July is now approaching and the exercises on that day should be conducted upon the same patriotic, creditable and extensive style. The day should be made a great success and a cordial and gracious welcome should be extended to the many visitors who are expected to be here from the Estancia valley, from the northern part of this county and from the Espanola and Embudo sections.
